William Edward Webb, 73, Chuniloti Way, Loudon was charged Monday with DUI and open container.

According to reports, Deputy Mickey Patterson, LCSO was dispatched to 266 Mialaquo Center for a possible DUI driver sitting in a maroon Cadillac XLR in front of the business Tugboats, who was blowing the car horn continuously.

Upon arrival, Deputy Patterson asked the driver, later identified as William E. Webb, if he had been drinking alcohol and Webb stated he'd only drank half a bottle.

The deputy reported he saw an open bottle of Margaritaville Spiked Tea in the vehicle and Mr. Webb had slurred speech and an odor of an alcoholic beverage about his person.

The officer further noted Webb started his vehicle and tried to back up twice, but Deputy Patterson told him to stop or he was going to hit his patrol car, which was parked behind Webb's vehicle.

The deputy called EMS to come and check Mr. Webb for any medical problems he may have had. They arrived on the scene and checked him out, but couldn't find anything wrong. Webb was then placed under arrest and transported to Fort Loudoun ER where he submitted to a blood alcohol and/or drug test, then he was taken on to the jail.

Sale

Chemie in Bradley County, Hemlock Semiconductor in Clarksville and Electrolux in Memphis. Those projects are expected to create 4,650 new permanent jobs, plus thousands more construction jobs and jobs in related industries.

The proceeds will also finance improvements to various state-owned buildings and properties across Tennessee, including a new research building for the University of Tennessee-Knoxville campus, a new library for the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga campus, a prison in Bledsoe County, renovations to the Supreme Court building and other state office buildings in Nashville and a new driver license center in Memphis.

Bonds will also be issued to refund (refinance) outstanding bonds to take advantage of low interest rates. Over time, the refunded bonds could save the state up to $10 million in interest costs.

The sale includes both taxable and tax-exempt bonds. Tennessee buyers must pay federal taxes on the taxable bonds, but they are not required to pay the state's Hall Income Tax on interest earnings.

"This sale represents an excellent opportunity for people to buy Tennessee bonds," Comptroller Justin P. Wilson said. "The major rating agencies have reaffirmed, once again, that our state is financially well-managed and therefore has strong creditworthiness. I'm pleased that these bonds will be used to pay for a variety of needs our citizens have, including economic development projects that will create badly-needed jobs. Also, this sale represents an opportunity for us to save taxpayer money by capitalizing on low interest rates."

Earlier this week, two of the major New York bond rating agencies – Fitch and Moody's Investors Services – reaffirmed Tennessee's AAA rating, which is the highest rating available. The third major agency, Standard and Poor's, reaffirmed Tennessee's AA+ rating, the second highest rating available. Among other factors used in determining the ratings, the agencies praised Tennessee for its sound financial management practices, low debt burden, well-funded pension plan and adequate reserves. The rating agencies expressed some concerns about a possible reduction in federal funding and the overall health of the economy – factors which are largely beyond the state's control.

The bond sale will be held from Oct. 11-13. More information about the sale is available at www.buyTNbonds.com. The state is using an aggressive strategy to market the bonds. Senior staff members taped a presentation to provide investors with an overview of the bond offering. The web site provides information on the brokerage firms participating in the sale, as well as instructions for first-time investors on how to purchase bonds, a link to the preliminary official statement and the taped investor presentation.

The previous record for a state bond sale was $389.635 million in 2009.

Trouble

A Loudon man is accused of going to another man's home to confront him about an issue and ended up leaving with a head injury and a ride to jail on an assault charge for his trouble.

Blake Collin Sharp, 25, Williams Ferry Road, Lenoir City was charged with assault.

According to records, Deputy Rondel M. Branam, LCSO responded to Jones Road Sunday on an assault call. The victim stated Blake Sharp came to his residence and knocked on the door. When his grandmother answered the door, Mr. Sharp asked if he could speak with the victim and the victim's grandmother said yes.

Mr. Sharp then asked the victim why he'd struck his girlfriend earlier that day and the victim asked Mr. Sharp to talk to him at the front door. The two began arguing inside the front door and Mr. Sharp told the victim, "I will see you out" and turned, like he was walking away.

The victim stated he was struck in the face by Mr. Sharp at that time and the two began to fight down the stairs and into the basement.

The victim further stated when they got to the basement he restrained Mr. Sharp around the neck and asked him if he would calm down and leave. The victim explained he let Sharp go and screamed for someone to call 911 when he saw blood coming from Mr. Sharp's head.

Mr. Sharp left the residence and was located by law enforcement in the front yard. Sharp was transported to Fort Loudoun ER for treatment of his injuries and was then advised he was under arrest for assault.

Out of Luck

Livia Mae Laek, 27, Rainbow Hill Lane, Knoxville was charged with DUI and implied consent.

According to records, while on routine patrol of Highway 11 West, Saturday, around 10:04 PM, Deputy Chuck Butler, LCSO noticed a gray Chevy Malibu sitting off the side of the road in a ditch at the intersection of Highway 11 and Lee High Street. The driver was identified as Livia M. Laek and when asked if she was injured, she replied no.

Deputy Butler asked her what had happened and Laek said she'd run off the road and hit a pole.

The vehicle had severe damage and the air bag was deployed.

Ms. Laek was very unsteady on her feet and had a strong odor of alcohol about her breath and person. She stated she had been drinking beer and mixed drinks.

The deputy asked if she knew her current location and Laek stated she was somewhere in Knoxville. She also stated she thought the current time was after 2:00 AM.

Ms. Laek performed poorly on field sobriety tasks and was placed under arrest. She was read and explained implied consent and was asked to submit blood, but she refused.
