official holiday period. Last year's Super Bowl weekend resulted in 10 traffic fatalities in the state.

The 2011 54-hour Super Bowl period ran from 6 p.m., Friday, February 4 through midnight, Sunday, February 6. According to initial reports, there were four fatal crashes, including a pedestrian and a motorcyclist fatality. Three of the fatalities were alcohol-related and two vehicle occupants killed were not wearing a seat belt.

"If preliminary reports stand up, the decline in fatalities during this year's Super Bowl is encouraging," said Tennessee Highway Patrol Colonel Tracy Trott. "However, it's disheartening to learn that three of the four fatalities were alcohol-related. We constantly educate and stress the consequences of drinking and driving. The fact that some people still don't get it...is tragic."

Over the weekend, State Troopers conducted more than 50 sobriety and driver license checkpoints across the state. Forty-five people were arrested for driving under the influence. Troopers issued more than 2,600 citations, including 901 for speeding and more than 250 for seat belt and child seat violations.

Overall, fatal crashes are down in Tennessee this year. To date, there have been 70 traffic fatalities, a decline of 27 from this time a year ago.

Please note the official traffic fatality count may rise due to delays in reporting from municipalities and classification of traffic fatalities.

lar bills that are collectable, along with other coins. Three rings and three pocket knives were also taken.

Selena Rider had been staying at the residence where the items were taken. On February 8th, 2011, Selena Rider was found in possession of some of the stolen coins by an officer investigating a domestic argument in Madisonville. It was also discovered she pawned three rings at US Pawn in Fort Olgethorpe, Georgia, that matched the three taken on Grimes Road. The rings were a pink ice ring, leaf ring and a gold colored ring with a diamond shaped design.

The bedroom where the items were stored was always locked and no one at the residence had permission to be in the room. The door was damaged when entry was made.

Corporal Angi Martin, LCSO served the warrants while Ms. Rider was in the Loudon County Jail.
