TWRA officials previewed their recommendations for the 2011-12 hunting and trapping seasons at the commission's April meeting. The recommendations feature several significant changes.

At the 2011-12 hunting seasons preview last month, new TWRA Wildlife and Forestry Division Chief Daryl Ratajczak said the agency is proposing to keep consistent regulations for the sportsmen and sportswomen of Tennessee and to save considerable time and money by not recommending changes for 2012-13. The regulations to be affected include big game, small game, furbearer, manner and means, and TWRA managed Wildlife Management Areas. Even with the proposed two-year cycle, the TWRC could recommend changing any of the regulations at any time.

Other major changes would include creating a continuous deer gun hunting season which would run from the traditional starting date of the Saturday before Thanksgiving through Jan. 1. Wild hogs will no longer be considered a big game animal and will be allowed to be taken at select WMAs during deer hunts.

Landowners would be given the ability to kill wild hogs by means not previously allowed. This includes all legal weapons and live trapping with bait outside of big game seasons.

The fall turkey season would be moved from December to October and the number of days would be increased from 12 to 14. Quail season would close the last day of January to help protect the resources and hopefully increase the state's quail population.

The fisheries division will make a presentation on the activities taking place at TWRA warm water hatcheries to highlight the fish spawning process. This includes brood collection, egg fertilization, fry development, and the final process of stocking fingerlings.

Committee meetings will be held beginning at 1 p.m. on May 19 and the formal commission meeting starts at 9 a.m. on May 20. The public is invited to attend.

According to records, Deputy Brian Smith, LCSO responded to Highland Avenue in Lenoir City Saturday on a burglary call where the complainant, Mr. Michael A. Carroll, of Cory Drive, Lenoir City stated he used to live at the residence on Highland until he moved to Cory Drive and now he's just storing some belongings there.

Deputy Smith noticed the door had been screwed shut using a piece of wood and some screws. Mr. Carroll said he tried, but couldn't contact the owner of the house.

The stolen items included a cast iron bed,

5 fishing poles, a tackle box containing fishing lures, a black, red and orange gas powered remote controlled car, a dark red Murray push mower, a red Toro weed trimmer, and 5 Southern Living Cookbooks.
