Drivers on I-75 know exactly three miles beforehand to expect traffic to be down to one lane; we just don't know which lane is closed or how we should merge until we are exactly 1/2 mile from the construction project. Interstate road construction ain't a walk in the park by any means, but it seems like if the signs were re-programed to read "Right Lane Closed Ahead, Prepare to Merge," driver's would have three miles to prepare for the merge instead of just a mere half mile and maybe, just maybe the situation wouldn't be quite as bad as it is now with everyone trying to squeeze into the bottleneck within that 1/2 mile we've been given warning for. Not all the divers of those thousands of vehicles passing through every day are from around these here parts and don't know what to expect like us locals who have had our first rodeo through the zone. Just sayin'.....

Weather

Today: Partly to mostly cloudy with a chance of thunderstorms. Hot and humid. High 94. Winds NNE at 5 to 10 mph. Chance of rain 50%.

from Canada or from as far away as Europe, you are asked to reply with personal information in order to receive the winnings. Scammers take that information

If you receive a notice that you have won a lottery, remember that:

If you didn't enter the contest or lottery, it's most likely a scam.

Legitimate sweepstakes don't require you to pay or buy anything to improve your chances of winning, or require you to pay "taxes" or "shipping and handling charges" to get your prize. If you have to pay for your prize, just say no.

Sponsors of legitimate contests identify themselves prominently.

It's highly unlikely that you've won a big prize if your notification was mailed by bulk rate. Check the postmark on the envelope or postcard.

Disreputable companies sometimes use a variation of an official or nationally recognized name to try to win your confidence in their offers.

Signing up for a sweepstakes at a public location or event, through a publication or online, might subject you to unscrupulous prize promotion tactics. You also run the risk of your personal information being sold or shared with other marketers.

Some contest promoters use a toll-free "800" number that directs you to dial a pay-per-call "900" number. Charges for calls to "900" numbers may be very high.
