Season

by unit: Unit A -4; Unit B -2; Unit L -3 per day. The antlered deer bag limit is a total of three for the year. A hunter may take his three antlered deer during any season, but no more than one per day.

In addition to deer, archers may harvest one wild turkey of either sex during the archery-only deer seasons in counties that have a fall turkey gun hunt. While hunting during the archery-only deer seasons, archers may take only wild turkey no matter how many counties they may hunt. (A list of counties in located on page 40 of the 2011 Tennessee Hunting and Trapping Guide).

The TWRA suggests all archery hunters obtain a 2011 Tennessee Hunting and Trapping Guide. The guide lists the counties and bag limits for each of the different deer management units. The guides are available where hunting and fishing licenses are sold and on the TWRA website, by clicking here.

During the opening weekend of the 2010 deer archery-only season, 2,401 were harvested an increase of 163 from 2009. All 95 counties reported harvests during the 2010 opening weekend.

Hunters are reminded that they must possess the appropriate licenses and permits. Any hunter born on or after Jan. 1, 1969 is required to carry proof of satisfactory completion of a hunter education class or be in possession of the Apprentice Hunting License (along with other required licenses) while hunting any species in Tennessee.

es students will need to learn from kindergarten through high school graduation. The NGSS process is being managed by Achieve, an education reform non-profit organization.

“A growing number of jobs in Tennessee and around the country require a strong background in science, technology and engineering. This new, rigorous curriculum will be imperative in making our students competitive for those future jobs,” said Kevin Huffman, Tennessee Education Commissioner.

The 20 lead state partners are: Arizona, California, Georgia, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota,

New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Washington and West Virginia.

“The lead state partners will provide important leadership and guidance throughout the development of the Next Generation Science Standards, and are to be congratulated for making a strong commitment to improving science education,” said Michael Cohen, president of Achieve. “This will be a collaborative process that will lead to a set of standards that provides America’s students a strong foundation in science, and supports college and career readiness for all.”

The development of the Next Generation Science Standards is a two-step process.

The first step was the building of a framework that identified the core ideas and practices in natural sciences and engineering that all students should be familiar with by the time they graduate. In July, the National Research Council released A Framework for K-12 Science Education, developed by a committee with expertise in science, teaching and learning, curriculum, assessment and education policy.

The second step is the development of science standards based on the Framework. As a lead state partner, Tennessee will guide the standard writing process, gather and deliver feedback from state-level committees and come together to address common issues and challenges. The lead state partners also agree to commit staff time to the initiative and, upon completion, give serious consideration to adopting the Next Generation Science Standards. In order to be considered, Tennessee had to submit a letter with the signature of the commissioner and the chairman of the Tennessee Board of Education.

American students continue to lag internationally in science education, making them less competitive for the jobs of the present and the future. A recent U.S. Department of Commerce study shows that over the past 10 years, growth in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) jobs was three times greater than that of non-STEM jobs. The report also shows that STEM jobs are expected to continue to grow at a faster rate than other jobs in the coming decade.

“There is a clear benefit to providing our students with the strong science education they need to compete in college and the work place,” said Stephen Pruitt, Vice President of Content, Research and Development at Achieve, who is coordinating the NGSS effort. “A strong science education provides all students with opportunities to be successful in the 21st century.”

Lawsuit

separate capiases for two new bill indictments issued in August by the Loudon County Grand Jury charging the Goldmans (along with their son, Andrew Goldman, and his girlfriend, Renae Hasbrouck) with illegally manufacturing Schedule VI marijuana in an amount of more than one hundred (100) plants from the Goldman residence at 130 Inagehi Way.

The indictment stems from a search warrant executed by the LCSO Narcotics Unit after Sheriff's deputies responded to a domestic violence call from the Goldman house on April 17, 2011. While investigating the domestic call deputies, according to the complaint, observed evidence of illegal drug use and took statements from the Goldmans that indicated the existence of an extensive indoor marijuana growing operation located in the basement of the Goldman residence.

The lawsuit filed by the district attorney places a lien on the real estate until the foreclosure hearing can take place, which will not occur until after the criminal charges have been resolved, according to Johnson.

Ronald Irwin Goldman, 58, and Joanne

Wolf Goldman, 58, were charged with illegally manufacturing Schedule VI marijuana in an amount of more than one hundred (100) plants and arrested Tuesday by Deputies John Maples and Bruce Padgett, LCSO.

texting people, telling them he was going to kill himself. Deputy Hall made contact with Mr. Dilly, driving the Saturn in the Pilot parking lot on Broadway.

Mr. Dilly spoke with a thick tongue and had trouble answering questions. The deputy gave Mr. Dilly several field sobriety tasks and he did very poorly on all.

Dilly had trouble following directions during the tasks, stumbled several times and was very unsteady on his feet. He had a white paste on his tongue and a very dry mouth.

Dilly stated he had taken three 1 mg. xanax the night before. Mr. Dilly gave blood at Fort Loudoun ER.

Zapata

Zapata paid for one day rental, then came back again and paid $327 to extend the contract until July 26th, 2011.

Upon further investigation, it was learned

Mr. Zapata did not return the trailer and was called about it on August 2nd, 2011. He advised he was on his way to bring the trailer back, but never showed.

Mr. Zapata was advised two more times to return the trailer, and he said he would return it, but he never did.

Mr. Bob Kendrick of Loudon County Rentals advised as of August 20th, 2011, the phone number on record for Mr. Zapata no longer worked and the address of 103 Coulter Street was not Mr. Zapata's address. A certified letter was sent to that address and was returned.

Deputy Lonnie Gaut, LCSO served the warrant Sunday at the Loudon County Jail.

Police Beat

Ron Michael Helton, 27, North B Street, Lenoir City was charged with DUI 1st offense and violation of implied consent.

According to records, Trooper John R. Carr, THP was patrolling on State Route 72 at Interstate 75, in Loudon, Friday, around 6:57 PM, when he saw a gray GMC Sierra getting off the Loudon exit and turning right to go eastbound onto State Route 72.

The driver, later identified as Ron M. Helton wasn't wearing a seat belt. He pulled over into the BP service station parking lot and Trooper Carr pulled in behind him. Mr. Helton got out of his truck and started looking at his tire. Records indicate when the trooper walked up to Mr. Helton, he immediately smelled an odor of beer coming from his breath. At first, Helton denied drinking any beer and then stated he'd drank a shot of liquor the night before and one beer that day.

Mr. Helton's eyes were bloodshot, his speech was slurred and he did poorly on field sobriety tasks. He was placed under arrest and read the implied consent law. Helton he advised Trooper Carr he wouldn't take a blood test.
