missed the turn and stopped. The driver of the van was jumping around in the vehicle acting very strange.

The van then pulled onto the access road and the deputy stopped the vehicle for suspicious activity.

The driver stepped out of the vehicle wearing a skirt and mesh top dressed as a female.

While talking to the driver the deputy asked to search the vehicle. While searching the vehicle the deputy found a bag containing approximately 6 grams of marijuana and approximately one gram of methamphetamine.

Also found was a glass pipe with marijuana and several cut straws. The driver was identified as Bryan Keith Herron and he was charged and transported to jail without incident.

Bryan Keith Herron, 53, of Slaters Lane, Alexandria, Virginia, was charged with simple possession of marijuana, possession of schedule II meth and possession of drug paraphernalia. Deputy Billy Hall, LCSO made the arrest.

almost anything from a chocolate bar to a time-share, but you are sure to feel a little weird about it later.

Sagittarius 11/22-12/21
Something small puts a huge smile on your face today. Make sure that you share it with others who appreciate your sense of wonder -- there's no sense in hiding your feelings!

Capricorn 12/22-1/19
You can do almost anything today as long as you stick it out through the adversity. The universe rewards persistence more than anything else right now, so as long as you focus, you can succeed.

Aquarius 1/20-2/18
Something blossoms in your life that makes you feel awesome -- so try to share it! You may find a new opportunity opening up by the end of the day. Jump on it quickly so you can make the most of it.

Pisces 2/19-3/20
You are fired up and ready for battle -- though you may be the only one who even knows there's a war on! Rally your troops and get them marching to your beat, or you may have to retreat quickly.

Aries 3/21-4/19
It's a great time to explore -- your energy is powering up your curiosity, and the day is full of great surprises. Things are looking up for you and your people, and it's hard not to have fun tonight!

Taurus 4/20-5/20
Don't trust your first impressions today - you may be taken in by smooth talk or fancy clothes. Ask probing questions and make sure your natural skepticism is front and center all day.

Gemini 5/21-6/21
This is not the time for passively waiting for things to happen. You may find that your energy is pushing you to do things that you had been putting off. Go for it! You can't lose this time.

Cancer 6/22-7/22
You are feeling more self-centered than usual. There's nothing wrong with that! Sometimes you need to handle your own issues first, and this is just one of those days. Turn off your phone!

Leo 7/23-8/22
You feel terrific, but you are somewhat appalled by a friend who keeps complaining over the tiniest things. You may not be able to intervene just yet, but you can try hanging out with others for now.

Virgo 8/23-9/22
You are sure to get nowhere if you keep your ideas or plans to yourself. Be daring and get a leg up on the competition. You may find that a friend or mentor is ready for your wildest schemes.

Libra 9/23-10/22
It's a good time for you to move out beyond your usual haunts and try for something bigger and better. See if you can get your people to join you for a funky night out -- it should be a blast!

The Good News

breath in the cool air. The birds are beginning to chirp and I can hear cows bellowing not very far away. In just a few moments the woods will begin to come alive with the rustling of squirrels, maybe a passing coyote or even Bullwinkle himself.

Any dedicated deer hunter knows that we are in the middle of the best two weeks of hunting in the whole year..... It's the rut! And I am sitting on a tall ridge with a thicket on one side of me and a large expanse of open hardwoods covered with acorns on the other. It's not quite heaven, but it's not a bad place to be this morning.

I am sitting in the same tree that I placed my son in last Saturday when he killed his biggest buck to date. I was super excited for him as we discussed his "monster" kill via text message from our tree stands. He then patiently waited in his tree for the ole man to have a turn at a cruising buck before coming down to find his trophy. I'm sure that wasn't easy for him because I was anxious to see it too. We both scored before 10 am, stopped for a Big Mac and still made it back to Loudon County by noon.

I am extremely proud that he has become an efficient outdoorsman as these skills will come in handy when he leaves for basic training in just a few short weeks.

I have also had the privilege to take my daughter hunting a few times this season and she has seen game each time, choosing not to take reckless shots that may not result in a clean harvest.

So why am I sharing the details of my morning in the woods, as well as hunting stories with my family here in The Good News?

It's because Thanksgiving is upon us and I want you to know that I thank God for the ability to hunt, the health to climb a tree stand, for a job with flexibility, healthy children that love me and want to spend time with me. I thank God that I don't live in Somalia or Africa where food is scarce and water is unfit to drink. I thank God for the opportunity to share these blessings with everyone who reads this article, including you.

Although each of us could easily complain about sickness, unpaid bills, broken hearts and the consequences of bad decisions, we each have so much more than many others do.

Two nights ago around 10:30 pm, I received a telephone call informing me that the father of my niece and nephew had just been killed in a car wreck. Five minutes later my young niece called me crying so hard that she could hardly breathe. My heart broke as I could only tell her that I was sorry and that I loved her very much.

I have been praying for them, for my sister, for his family and others like them who are dealing with tragedy, illness and hard times.

Jesus loves those who are struggling even in times when it may not seem so. These are the times that He wants us to turn all of our worries over to Him. These are the times that Jesus holds His hand out, waiting for us to trust Him for comfort, relief and sometimes for the strength to make it through today.

For those of us who didn't lose a loved one this week, who can hug our babies and call our fathers; we have even more to be thankful for.

I cherish the time I spend with my children who are all almost grown. I love the young lady that God has sent to us from Montana and trusted us to teach and instruct in the ways of His Word. I love my wife and I am thankful that she serves our Lord and Savior in many ways.

As we enter Thanksgiving week I hope that each of us will be reminded of our blessings and understand who it is that we can give thanks to.

Children of all ages, I hope that you will spend time with your parents and tell them what they mean to you. Parents, share the love of Jesus with your children as it is truly your responsibility. Eternity is a really, really long time and you sure don't want to see them on judgment day being cast into the lake of fire because YOU didn't show them where to find eternal salvation through Jesus.

Here is my prayer for each of you this week:

"Father God I thank You for loving me when so often I am unlovable. I thank You for pouring out Your mercy upon me when I had turned my back on You for so long. Father I pray that each of us will always remember that You are God and that You are always in control. Lord when times are hard and our lives seem hopeless, let us always remember that You are hope. I pray that someone reading my prayer to You will also trust You in their time of despair and that any who want to experience Your true love for eternity will realize that all they have to do is believe on Your Son, Jesus Christ, and ask. Use me Lord as Your voice to the hurting, to the lost, and to other Christians like me who may have forgotten how awesome it is to have a true relationship with You. I ask it all in the precious name of Jesus, my Lord and Savior, Amen."

Happy Thanksgiving week!!

VENISON ROAST

Makes 14 servings.

7 lbs. venison roast, trimmed and trussed
4 tbsp, fresh rosemary, chopped

1 tbsp juniper berries, ground
2 tbsp sea salt
2 tbsp Tellicherry black pepper, freshly ground
3 tbsp rendered duck fat, pork lard or whole unsalted butter

To prepare oven: Pre-heat oven to 375 degrees.

To sear venison: Season venison with rosemary, juniper berries, salt and pepper. In large pan, melt duck fat. Add venison. Sear over medium high heat until well browned on all sides.

To roast venison: Place venison on roasting rack set inside large, lined sheet pan. Roast until internal temperature registers 110 degrees on meat thermometer.

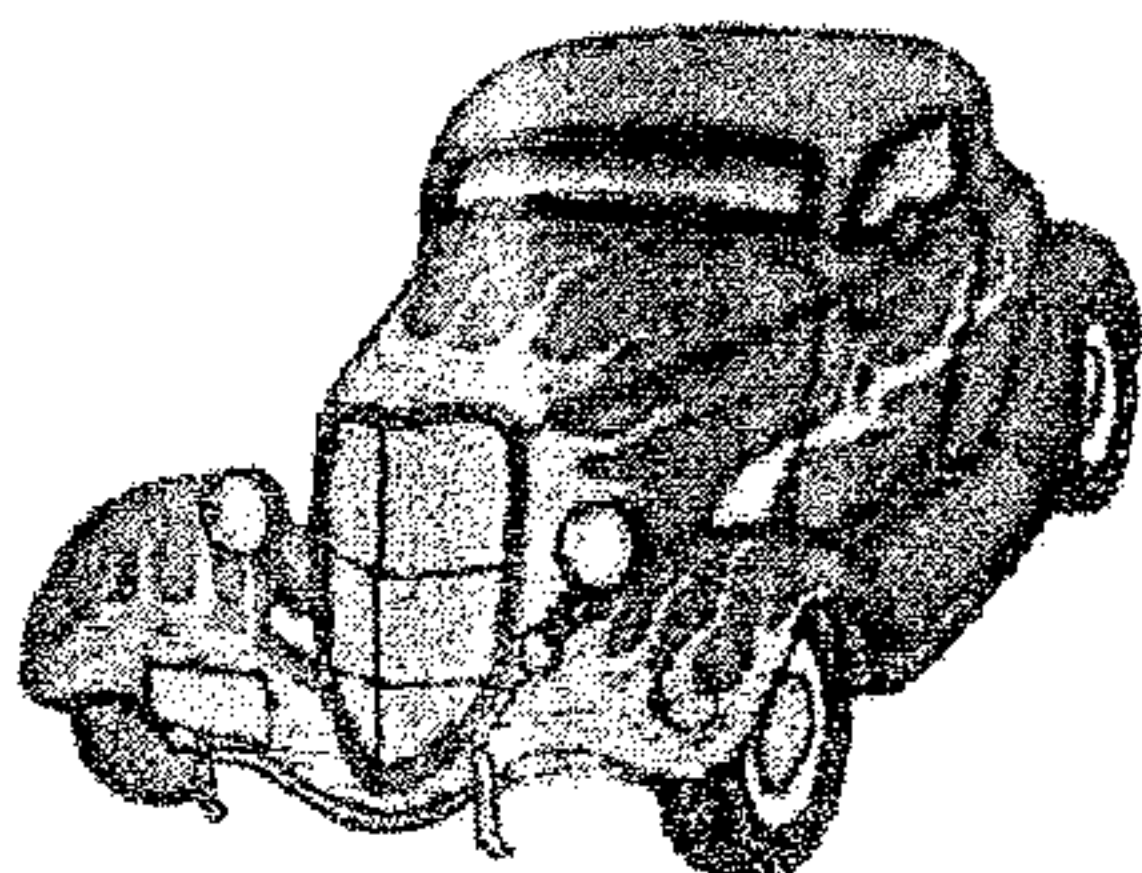

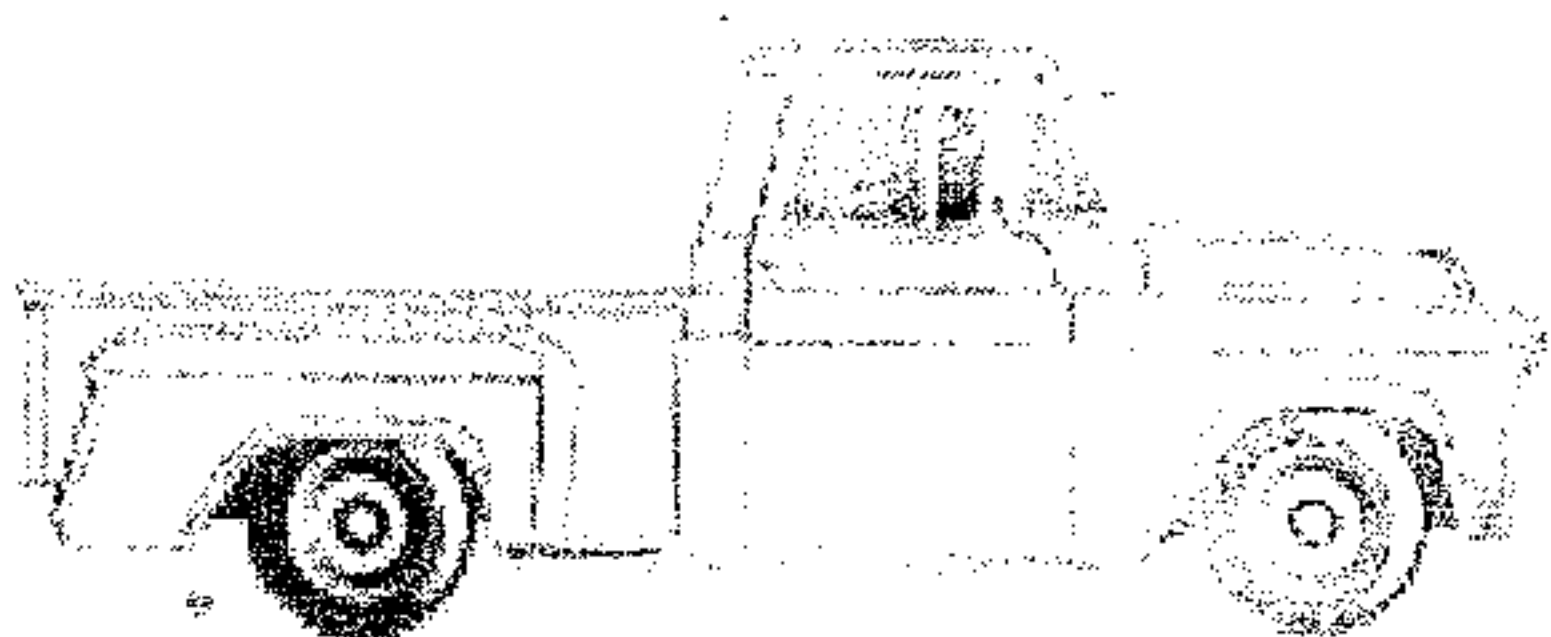

To serve: Remove venison from oven. Cut away twine. Let rest for 10 minutes. Slice against grain. Serve immediately.
