Verify

with the state is your fundamental first step, when selecting a contractor to work on your home. By all means, use verify.tn.gov to see whether the person you're considering is a licensed contractor."

Contractor licensing also carries parameters that govern the types of jobs different licensees are permitted to perform. The Board for Licensing Contractors, one of the regulatory boards within TDCI, has a page for consumers with information related to licenses and other information at <http://1.usa.gov/mQF7s0>. The Contractors Board can be reached at 800-544-7693 or Contractors.HomeImprovement@TN.Gov.

When selecting a contractor, it is also important to:

- Remember that legitimate contractors will not appear at your home, claiming to have noticed damage to your roof or property. A "contractor" demonstrating this behavior should immediately raise a red flag.

- Get several bids. It's best to get at least three bids and check references.

- Get a written contract that includes the company's name, address and telephone number.
