School is back in session beginning today, so please drive safely and watch out for our children.

Believe it not, the speed limit on Martel Road is 35 m.p.h. and on Broadway in downtown Lenoir City it's only 30. All you bumper smoochers out there need to back off and leave drafting to Nascar where it belongs.

was retrieved.

Daniel Gary Duggan, 37, Parkway Drive, Lenoir City was charged with aggravated assault, possession of schedule II narcotics and interfering with a legal writ.

According to records, Sunday, around 4:43 PM, Corporal Pete McGinley and other deputies from the Loudon County Sheriff's Office went to a residence on Parkway Drive to serve two violation of probation warrants on a female and upon arrival, law enforcement spoke to Mr. Daniel Duggan, who was verbally resistant to deputies. The homeowner gave permission to enter to look for the woman and as officers entered, Mr. Duggan continued to be verbally resistant.

Corporal McGinley reported he noticed the handle and sheath of a large knife in Duggan's waistband and he grabbed the handle and proceeded to take the knife for officer safety. As he grabbed the knife, he tried to tell Mr. Duggan he was going to hold it for the safety of all involved, however Duggan grabbed the other end of the knife and started fighting Corporal McGinley for it by trying to pull the knife from his hands.

The corporal yelled to other deputies to taser Duggan and Mr. Duggan was tasered by Deputy J. Stegall, at which point the corporal was able to gain control of the knife.

After Duggan was cuffed he was checked for other weapons and a prescription bottle of clonazepam containing 22 pills was discovered in his right front pocket. Duggan's name was not on the bottle.

with friends the couple had gone out with.

Stephan Douglas Martin, 35, Lovelace Drive, Knoxville was charged with assault by domestic violence and false imprisonment.

According to affidavits; on August 4, 2012, Deputy Chris Bowen, LCSO was dispatched to domestic disturbance on Highway 70 East where a woman said she and her live-in boyfriend, Stephan D. Martin, were in a verbal argument that became physical and just the day before, they were out with friends in Knox County and were asked to leave an establishment due to Mr. Martin's level of intoxication. At the time, there was also an altercation with the other couple they were with and she went and stayed with her friend for the rest of the night. The woman said she was walking home the next day when Martin approached her and convinced her to get in the car, telling her he would take her to get her vehicle and let her leave. When she got in the car, however, Martin became violent and struck her head against the dash by force.

some point the victim was able to text a third party and tell them of the situation and that person then contacted the Loudon County Communications Center and deputies were dispatched.

On arrival of law enforcement, Mr. Martin fled the area into the woods to avoid prosecution. The owner of the property, identified as one of Martin's relatives, arrived on the scene and locked up the residence.

The victim advised he then transported her to his parents residence on Highway 70 East and when they arrived he continued to strike her and would not allow her to leave.

Martin allegedly attempted to place the woman in the trunk of a vehicle and made verbal threats to kill her and cut her fingers off, placing her in fear of bodily injury or death.

Corporal Pete McGinley transported the victim to a place of safety and while enroute to the location, Martin sent her a text, which said he'd watched all parties leave (the residence) and she (had) really messed up this time and she would pay.

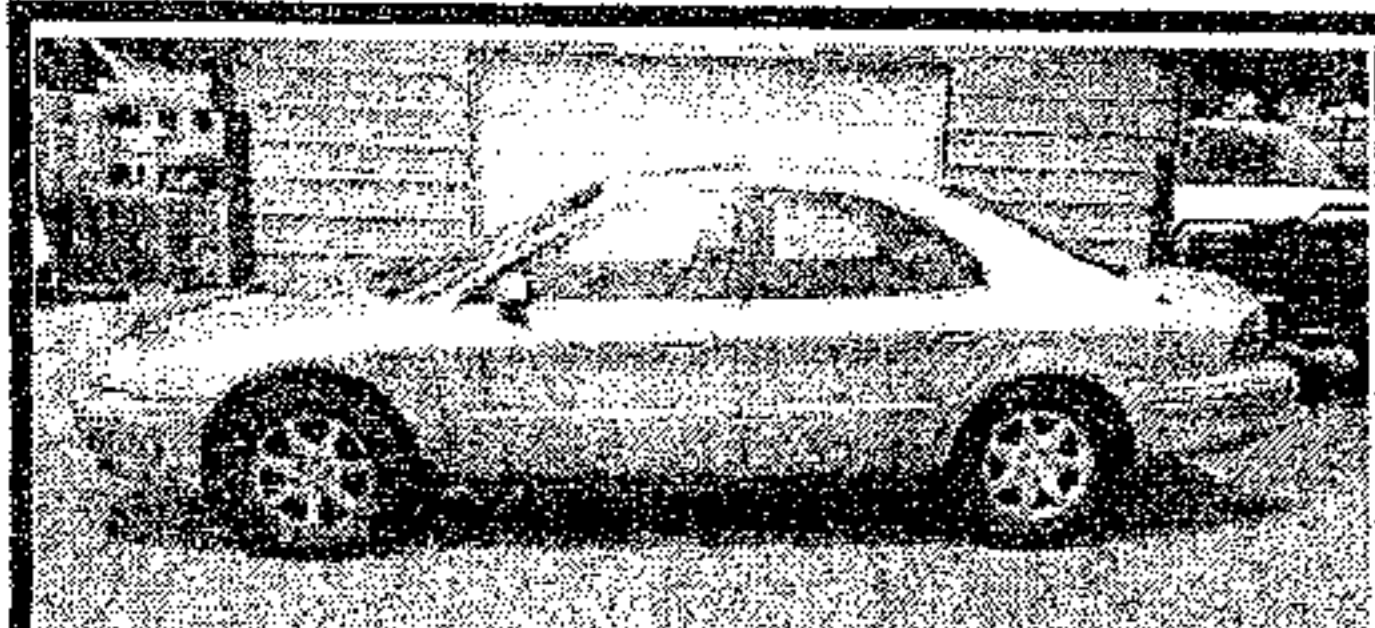

Deputy Bowen located Martin at his residence where he took him into custody.
