

Man keeps crashing and leaving snared by THP

A local man was taken into custody by Tennessee Highway Patrol after he was reportedly involved in at least two accidents and finally bailed from the vehicle after it wouldn't run anymore and caught a ride. THP captured the man walking on Highway 321.

According to the warrants, Trooper Rodney Best, THP was dispatched to a property damage crash on Buttermilk Road and was advised the subject had left the scene and had crashed once again leaving and turning onto Paw Paw Plains Road before running out of the road and was unable to leave this time due to damage.

When the trooper turned onto Paw Paw Plains Road he came in contact with a witness who reported he was the caller that witnessed the crashes and followed the subject until the trooper arrived. The witness reported prior to the troopers arrival the subject left in a burgundy vehicle.

While waiting at the scene for the wrecker service the car the subject left in returned to the scene. The driver, Debbie Wells, reported the truck belonged to her and her boyfriend that she picked up and drove to the Weigels and made him get out. Ms. Wells reported her boyfriend Shawn Risk was the driver of the vehicle.

Sgt. Whitt, THP proceeded to the Weigels and located Shawn Risk walking on Hwy 321 and returned him to the scene. Trooper Best observed a strong odor of an alcoholic beverage on Risk's person and he was unsteady on his feet. Mr. Risk performed poorly on sobriety tasks and refused a BAC test.

Shawn Patrick Risk, 42, of Country Lane, Lenoir City, was charged with driving under the influence and violation of implied consent. Trooper Rodney Best, THP made the arrest.

aged state in the nation, Adams' role will be to work with state departments to ensure they're operating in the most efficient and effective way possible.

"Greg brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to state government," Haslam said. "It says a lot for our state that we're able to attract this caliber of talent. Greg will bring a fresh perspective to the work we're doing every day to serve Tennessee taxpayers in the most efficient and effective way. I am grateful that he is willing to serve in this capacity."

Adams, 58, comes to state government from IBM where he served as a member of the company's senior leadership team, most recently as a managing director in the financial services sector. He spent nearly 37 years at IBM in positions in sales, marketing, operations, reengineering, and quality and general management.

Early in his career he spent two years in Knoxville as branch manager of IBM's East Tennessee operations and then moved to Nashville where he was regional manager of the Mid-South region. After that he served as managing director of operations and board member for IBM Japan in Tokyo. In 1994 he moved to New York where he spent 11 years with the company in different roles ranging from general manager of process industries for IBM North America to vice president of small and medium business for Canada, the United States and Latin America. He moved to Atlanta in 2005.

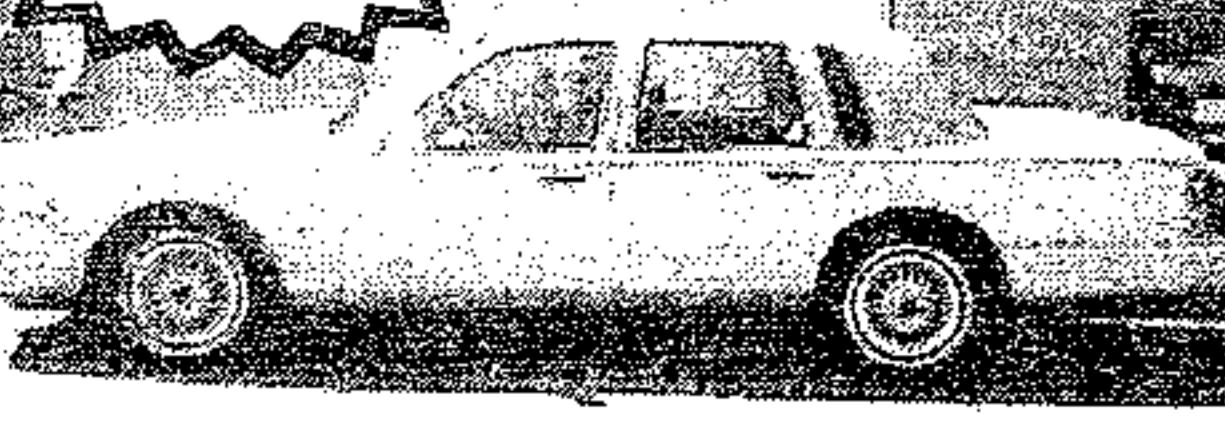

"I am excited to work with Gov. Haslam and join his senior team in this new role," Adams said. "This is a unique opportunity to apply my experience and skills in the public sector, and I look forward to being back in Tennessee. Not only have I lived and worked in Knoxville and Nashville, we have several proud graduates of Tennessee universities in my family. It will be great to be back."

Adams earned a Bachelor of Science and Engineering degree from Princeton University in 1976 and a master's in science and management from M.I.T. in 1989. He's been married to his wife, Jeannine, for 36 years and has three married children and five grandchildren. He will begin his new role on Monday, July 8.
