

It's bad when you're banned from the jail! 3rd DUI for Ldn man

Becky Viars

According to the report, an inmate was brought to visitation to visit with two people that had come to see him. Deputy Vance Wright looked into the window and saw Becky Viars sitting there. Mrs. Viars had been previously banned from the justice center for repeatedly attempting to visit the inmate without either signing in or providing proper ID. Ms. Viars was instructed to step to the visitation area where the officer reminded her residence.

Rhonda May, 42, of Cheestana Way, Loudon was charged with theft over $1000 and arrested by Deputy Cody Fritts, LCSO.

According to the deputy's affidavit, on June 28, 2013, a Chanusi Way couple reported the theft of multiple items from their residence including clothes, jewelry, electronics and miscellaneous household items worth over $4000 and during the course of the investigation Rhonda May became a suspect. The deputy reported on Monday, he and Lt. Patrick Upton, LCSO-CID received permission from May to look through her residence and vehicles and they found several items of clothing, jewelry, electronics and miscellaneous household items, all of which were identified by the victims. May was interviewed on Tuesday and admitted to the larceny.

into the windshield of the vehicle, cracking it from the inside passenger seat then slammed the passenger side door so hard it broke the interior of the door loose. The complainant further stated her daughter was in fear for her safety. Officer Parker then responded to 225 Kelly Lane and discovered Mr. DeJesus who ran into the woods after he saw law enforcement. He was taken into custody without incident. According to the report, Mr. DeJesus told the officer he got mad and kicked the window out of rage and broke it. The victim refused to give a written statement but did verify her and Johnny were arguing and he kicked the windshield. A witness stated when they got into the car The victim and Johnny started arguing and Johnny got extremely mad and kicked the windshield and busted it. He also broke the door so it won't shut. Johnny DeJesus was determined to be the primary aggressor and was transported to the Loudon County Jail. Sgt. L. Ladd, LCPD, was also on the scene.

3rd DUI

Jeffrey Brian Padgett, 44, Church Street, Loudon, was charged with DUI 3rd offense and driving on revoked 2nd offense.

According to records, Tuesday, around 11:56 pm, Officer Sam Harrison, LPD, stopped a white Oldsmobile driving from Highway 11 onto Church Street with the left front on the rim. The driver, Mr. Padgett stated he didn't realize he was driving on the rim. He further stated he wrecked past the Justice Center. Officer Harrison stated in his report he was at Mr. Padgett's residence earlier, around 10:55 pm, when his mother had to be taken to the hospital by ambulance. Mr. Padgett reportedly asked the officer if he could drive and pick up his mother when she was done at the hospital and Officer Harrison told him if he drove a vehicle he would be arrested for DUI. Padgett stated he took a clonapin about 6:00 pm, and performed poorly on field sobriety tasks and was read implied consent. He agreed and was transported to Sweetwater Hospital ER for a BAC, then on to the Loudon County Jail.

Map Quest Seeking Owners of Stolen Artwork

After a well-known dealer of rare maps was caught stealing from a Yale University library in 2006, a subsequent FBI investigation revealed that the man had stolen antique maps and other valuable items from institutions around the world. Most of the pilfered material was eventually returned to its rightful owners—but not all of it.

We are still in possession of 57 rare maps and books—some dating to the 17th century—and we would like to return them. To that end, we are posting pictures and information about the items in the accompanying photo gallery in the hopes that the individuals or institutions who own them will come forward to claim them.

“These items have been legally forfeited to the U.S. government,” said Bonnie Magness-Gardiner, who manages the FBI’s Art Theft Program. “Technically, they belong to the Bureau now, but we don’t want to keep them. Even though we have tried to find the rightful owners over the years, we are making another attempt.”

After Edward Forbes Smiley, III was arrested for the Yale library theft, he admitted stealing and selling nearly 100 rare maps from international collections over a period of seven years. With Smiley’s cooperation, we tracked down most of the dealers and collectors who purchased the approximately $3 million worth of stolen material. But returning the maps to their homes proved to be a daunting task.

In many cases, the maps were cut from books with a razor and trimmed so they didn’t look like they came from books. Some of the maps had different titles—many in Latin—and could have come from several known copies of the same book. To further complicate matters, many libraries weren’t even aware they were missing items until we contacted them.

“These maps aren’t vehicles with identification numbers stamped on them,” Special Agent Stephen

J. Kelleher, who led the 2006 investigation, said at the time. Special Agent Lisa MacNamara, who is working the case now from our New Haven, Connecticut Division, added. "Our hope is that by reaching out to the public in this way, we can get these historical items back to where they belong."

The items still in our possession include rare maps such as an 18th century depiction of the United States, a 1683 street plan of Philadelphia, and several antique books.

If you believe that one of the maps or books shown in the gallery was stolen from your collection, please contact Special Agent MacNamara at (203)

503-5268, or send an e-mail to artwork@ic.fbi.gov. To claim any of the items, you will need to provide evidence of ownership and positively identify the item in question. That might include—but is not limited to—giving a description of special markings or stamps, wear patterns, specific damage, or other detailed information.

Police beat

Brandie Jordan, 30, of Walnut St., Greenback, was charged with public intoxication. According to the report, Officer K. Sennett, LCPD was dispatched to Phoenix Urgent Care for a possible intoxicated individual. Ms. Jordan had a powder substance around her nose and was passed out asleep in the office.

After waking her up she was unaware of her surroundings and very unstable on her feet. Ms. Jordan reported she had taken oxycodone earlier in the day. Officer K. Sennett, LCPD made the arrest.

Cynthia Marie Woods, 41, homeless, was charged with immediate precursor of methamphetamine. According to the report, Ms. Woods was a passenger in a vehicle that was stopped for a traffic violation. During a search of the vehicle a box of pseudoephedrine was found in the area of Ms. Woods. When questioned Ms. Woods admitted to purchasing the pseudo with the intent to trade the box for methamphetamine. Officer Brad Brown, LCPD made the arrest.
