Article III of the Bill of Rights

Dearest Readers,
By now I imagine you have uncovered my passion for the US Constitutional Amendments and are now wondering how soon it will be before I turn to a topic difference. Maybe you are just as interested in the Bill of Rights and know exactly what I am saying, or maybe you didn't know what they were and are learning. No matter the reason for your reading today, I appreciate your time and very much look forward to your commentary on the subjects at hand.

Signs

Two people were taken into custody after they were reportedly found intoxicated with numerous road signs in their possession.

John M Hester, 22, of Salem Loop Greenback, Tn. and Tyler Hughes of Binfield Rd. Maryville, Tn. was charged with public intoxication, theft under $500.00, and possession of burglary tools.

According to the report, Deputy Ketner, was patrolling on Unitia Rd. and noticed a black ford focus sitting with the lights off at the entrance of Hickory Valley. Once the vehicle saw the patrol car the driver turned the lights on and turned onto Unitia Rd.

The deputy initiated the traffic stop and approached the vehicle from the passenger side. Once he got to the car the deputy noticed street signs in the back seat, He also noticed a hammer, needle nose pliers, and vise grips in the passenger seat of the car.

The deputy identified the driver as John Hester, Mr. Hester had watery bloodshot eyes, and a strong odor of alcohol on his person.

The deputy identified the passenger as Tyler Hughes, Mr. Hughes also had watery bloodshot eyes and a strong odor of alcohol.

Mr. Hughes and Mr. Hester stated that they had been out stealing street signs. Mr. Hughes stated they started in Blount Co. and didn't know how they ended up in Loudon Co.

Deputy Ketner LCSD made the arrest.

Police beat

James Clauson, 65, of Woodland Drive, Kingston, was charged with driving under the influence. According to the report, Corporal Michael Watkins, LCSO was dispatched to Hwy 11. Upon arrival the deputy observed the vehicle cross both lines but due to the traffic backed up behind it was unable to stop it until it got to Broadway where it was stopped. Mr. Clauson was the driver and he was unsteady on his feet and stated he was on nerve medicine and muscle relaxers. A BAC test was given at the hospital. Corporal Michael Watkins, LCSO made the arrest.

Fight

Joel Hamilton Lynn, 27, of Spring Street, Philadelphia, was charged with aggravated assault.

According to the report, Mr. Joel Lynn did go to the residence of the victim located on Spring Street in Philadelphia looking for another male subject.

The victim did speak with Mr. Lynn in the front yard of the residence, telling Mr. Lynn he did know the subject Mr. Lynn was looking for.

At that time Mr. Lynn told the victim he did not believe him and he thought the victim was the male he was looking for.

Mr. Lynn then struck the victim in the face with an unknown shiny object in his hand causing the victim to loose several teeth and causing a puncture wound through his bottom lip.

Sgt. Detective Charles Cosner, LCSO made the arrest.

great Nation and although at times we have wavered in our national support of such pursuits, America has been able to stand the test of a couple hundred years, several wars, two depressions and political savagery.

Article 3 of the Bill of Rights, in my opinion, is one that can either be a blessing or a curse. Property rights are a hard thing to come by in most every country but America, and this amendment is a touchy subject when involving personal choice and belongings.

Article III

No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house, without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

I am not as familiar with this amendment as many of the others, simply because I have been quite a lucky lady and have never been alive during a domestic war. However; my parents were present for the Vietnam War where several of-age soldiers were trying to dodge the draft, and in my interpretation of this amendment, it would have affected any family that had housed or attempted to house a draft dodger at that time.

I am assuming this means an enlisted soldier? So, no soldier shall be living or housed without governmental permissions even during a time of peace. Meaning that enlisted soldiers can, at times of peace, be allowed a leave of absence to visit family or friends, as long as the government signs the leave of absence slips and knows how to track you down should you go AWOL and not return.

Something that gets me is this amendment makes sure to mention without the consent of the owner directly after that statement. If the owner gives consent for a soldier to reside in their house, does this mean that any other issues that could arise would be a non-issue? For example, an aiding and (sp) abiding charge? The owner gave consent correct?

The answer to this is within the amendment itself, or so that I how I am reading this situation. A manor prescribed by law... Does this mean that any law can supersede this amendment? Certain laws? Which laws? All property rights laws pertaining to permissions by a property owner or only those pertaining to housing a soldier? Far fetched you may be saying, however that slippery slope has to start somewhere.

....nor in a time of war... I have seen plenty of History books and ledgers pertaining to the Civil War and no where did I find even one property owner that gave permission to house or maintain soldiers yet every available home was raided, food taken, property destroyed all without so much as one consent from the owners of said property. Does this make it ok? Should the government have stepped in and proclaimed by law an exception of those actions?

I know these are hypothetical questions, but guess who sits around and thinks about the what if's? Lawyers and Supreme Courts. Why do they think this way? To make sure every loop hole in every law can be found in order to either close it or to use it in a way that writes a better or more constricting law.

As I write this blog today, I realize that it may seem trivial continuing to write about our Rights, but I also realize that so many Americans today do not question their own government or question anything for that matter. It is time to open your minds to the possibilities of change, but to embrace that change you must understand where each law resides and how our Rights are affected by new laws written daily.

Please feel free to comment about this bill. In my mind I see it more as an infringement of personal property rather than an issue of armed men and women, but that is the beauty of these amendments. Each person can see and interpret something different and be allowed to express that opinion. Thank God for America.

Corporate Lesson One

A man is getting into the shower just as his wife is finishing up her shower when the doorbell rings. After a few seconds of arguing over which one should go and answer the doorbell, the wife gives up, quickly wraps herself up in a towel and runs downstairs.

When she opens the door, there stands Bob, the next door neighbour. Before she says a word, Bob says, "I'll give you $800 to drop that towel that you have on"

After thinking for a moment, the woman drops her towel and stands naked in front of Bob. After a few seconds, Bob hands her $800 and leaves.

Confused, but excited about her good fortune, the woman wraps back up in the towel and goes back upstairs. When she gets back to the bathroom, her husband asks from the shower, "Who was that?"

"It was Bob the next door neighbour," she replies.

"Great," the husband says, "did he say anything about the $800 he owes me?"

Management Lesson?

If you share critical information pertaining to credit and risk in time with your stakeholders, you may be in a position to prevent avoidable exposure.
