Judge

Page, 60, has been a judge on the Tennessee Court of Criminal Appeals since his appointment by Haslam in December 2011, writing more than 330 appellate opinions. He previously served as a circuit court judge for the 26th Judicial District, which includes Chester, Henderson and Madison counties. In that position, he presided over more than 300 civil and criminal jury trials.

"We are fortunate to have someone with such a depth of experience for this important position," Haslam said. "Judge Page has a distinguished career both as a judge and an attorney, and Tennesseans will benefit from having him on the Supreme Court."

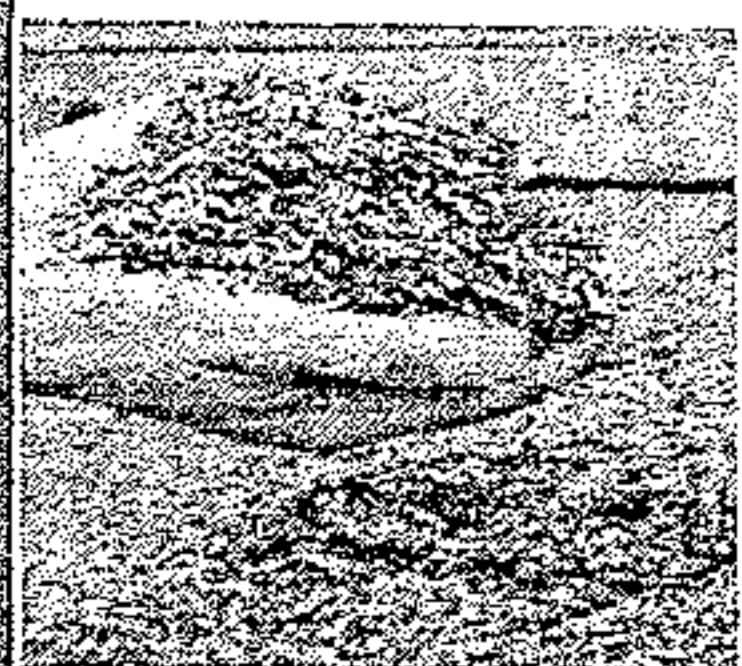

Page's appointment is subject to confirmation by the Tennessee General Assembly.

"I have been honored to serve the citizens of Tennessee for the past 18 years as a member of the judiciary, and I am humbled by the governor's confidence in selecting me for the Tennessee Supreme Court," Page said.

Prior to his experience on the bench, Page was assistant attorney general for the state in Jackson from 1991-

Kimberly Davis, 28, Angewood Drive Crossville, was charged with Man/Sell/Del/Resale SCH. VI.

Casey Foster, 20, Riverwalk Drive Sevierville, was charged with Man/Sell/Del/Resale of SCH. VI.

Deputy Bobby Hamilton LCSO, was at the TA Truck Stop when he observed a Truck pull in the parking lot at a fast speed. The truck pulled up beside a small white vehicle the male driver of the truck exited the vehicle and exchanged something with the female in the small car. The male got back in the truck and the female was looking down at what she received from the male. Due to the truck stop being a high crime area Deputy approach the vehicle and identified the driver of the truck as Casey Foster, and the female driver and Kimberly Davis. Both parties told Deputy they were meeting because they were friends. After asking question both parties could not tell Deputy each other names. Deputy could smell the odor of marijuana coming from the vehicles. Deputy called Investigator Shane Ezell LCSO, in to investigate. After an investigation both parties were placed under arrest. Inv. Shane Ezell LCSO, made the arrest.
