The Good News

by Rev. Dr. Julius McCarter

The words "blood of the cross" bring images of a bloody Jesus, sacrificed for us as payment for debt, satisfaction for sin. "Reconciliation and peace", on the other hand, bring images of embrace and connection, images not typically associated with the cross. Understanding God's work in Christ as a ministry of reconciliation gives a different way of thinking about what Christ was doing for us on the cross. The creator of all things, desiring so much to be in relationship with all things, God risked God's son to our violence.

Our nation has just come through a hard election cycle that resulted in angry words, accusations and even violence. As disciples of the one in whom God worked reconciliation for us we are called to be people of reconciliation. To speak truth about divisions and yet risk, as God risked for us, for the sake of reconciliation.

Prayer: Loving God, you risked yourself so that we might have life and be reconciled to you. Help us, your holy church, to be agents of reconciliation and truth, proclaiming your desire for all people to live in peace. In Christ your son, our Lord. Amen.
