Governor Haslam, Commissioner Boyd Announce The Jack Daniel Distillery to Expand in Lynchburg

Global demand drives $140 million investment

Tennessee Gov. Bill Haslam and Department of Economic and Community Development Commissioner Randy Boyd along with Brown-Forman Corporation officials announced today expansion plans for the Jack Daniel Distillery.

The $140 million investment will be used to construct two new barrel-houses as well as modify and expand the existing bottling facility to provide additional bottling and shipping capacity to meet future demand. As a result, 30 new jobs will be created in Moore County.

"Jack Daniel's is a Tennessee tradition that was born in one of Tennessee's smallest counties and has grown into a globally recognized brand. That says a lot about the quality and commitment of Moore County's workforce," Haslam said. "I thank Brown-Forman and

Haslam: State of Our State Is One of Unique Opportunity

Budget proposal makes the largest K-12 investment without a tax increase in state history

Tennessee Gov. Bill Haslam delivered his 2016 State of the State and Budget Address before a joint session of the 109th General Assembly, unveiling a balanced $34.8 billion proposal that makes the largest investment in K-12 education without a tax increase in Tennessee's history.

The governor's Fiscal Year 2016-2017 budget proposes 261 million in new dollars for Tennessee public education, including $104.6 million for teacher salaries.

In his speech Haslam highlighted the collaborative effort across state government to grow Tennessee's economy, reduce ongoing costs, provide high quality service to taxpayers and maintain fiscal discipline that has positioned Tennessee to invest in its priorities.

"The reality is that the state of our state is one of unique opportunity, an opportunity that must not go to waste," Haslam said. "This opportunity is a result of a strengthening economy combined with the hard work and discipline of our departments and the conservative fiscal strategy employed by the General Assembly," (see haslam pg. 4) tims knowledge or consent, and with the intent to deprive victim of ownership. Victim vehicle, a 1994 Ford F250 4x4 truck, was parked in front of his residence at W 6th Ave., Lenoir City. Coleman entered victim truck and forced apart the steering column cover, then started the truck using a screwdriver. Coleman then drove away in victim truck. At 1:06 PM, same date, hikers discovered victim truck, stuck in a remote wooded area near the lake off Jackson Bend Road and subsequently reported the discovery to the Loudon County Sheriff's Office. When deputies arrived at the scene, Coleman was still in the driver's seat of the truck and was trying drive away. However, the truck remained stuck in mud, and Deputies removed Jeremy from the driver's seat and placed him in custody. Coleman had driven victim truck approximately 1/4 mile off road down a narrow trail, before getting it stuck on an embankment. There was significant damage done to victim truck and recovery would require use of heavy equipment. Coleman was transported to the Loudon County Jail by Corp. Pete McGinley LCSO.

sentenced to serve 85 months in prison, followed by a 15-year term of supervised release. Collins pleaded guilty in August 2015, to receipt of child pornography. Restitution was also ordered to some of his victims.

The indictment and subsequent conviction of Collins was the result of a year-long investigation conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), Bradley County Sheriff's Department, and Harriman Police Department. The investigation began when a Harriman Police detective was able to download images and videos from a Peer-to-Peer internet account belonging to Collins on three different dates over the course of three months. These images and videos were of minors engaging in sexual activity. The FBI, along with an Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force Officer from the Bradley County Sheriff's Department, discovered that Collins had more than 80,000 images and 300 videos on his computer and other electronic storage media. The images and videos were compared with those from known victims through the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children's (NCMEC) database. The NCMEC database found that the images belonged to 222 known victim series and the videos belonged to 90 known victim series.

This case was brought as part of Project Safe Childhood, a nationwide initiative to combat the growing epidemic of child sexual exploitation and abuse launched in May 2006 by the Department of Justice. Led by U.S. Attorneys' Offices and the Criminal Division's Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section, Project Safe Childhood marshals federal, state and local resources to better locate, apprehend and prosecute individuals who exploit children via the Internet, as well as to identify and rescue victims. our constitutional officers and this administration.

“By managing wisely and investing strategically, we’re making tax dollars work harder for Tennesseans. This is what we do.”

Haslam’s budget proposal builds up state reserves, puts Tennessee on the path to catch up on long-deferred maintenance of buildings, reinvests in the state workforce and focuses one-time dollars on reducing the state’s ongoing costs.

“This is our opportunity. Let’s bear down on what we can do together, keeping Tennessee a state with a strong financial condition, helping Tennessee to be the No. 1 location in the Southeast for high quality jobs, and making certain that all Tennesseans regardless of their circumstances have an opportunity for a high quality education,” Haslam said.

Including the current fiscal year’s appropriation, state government will invest more than 414 million in new dollars in Tennessee schools, more than $200 million of that toward increases to teacher salaries. Additionally, Haslam proposed funding the 12th month of health insurance for teachers and doubling the state’s recurring contribution for technology needs at schools.

“What’s important in all of this is that we’re not investing in the same old public education system in Tennessee. We’ve raised our standards. We’ve linked teacher evaluations to student performance, and we’ve expanded education options for children. We’re showing historic progress, and we can’t back up,” Haslam said.

The governor’s proposal puts $100 million into the state’s Rainy Day Fund, bringing it to an estimated $668 million on June 30, 2017; $60 million for salary increases for state employees; and another $36 million for market rate adjustments for state employees making less than $50,000 annually.

Haslam proposed significant investments in higher education and the Drive to 55 initiative, the state’s effort to increase the number of Tennesseans with a postsecondary credential to 55 percent by 2025, including:

$50 million for the Complete College funding formula for higher education;

$20 million for the Drive to 55 Capacity Fund to help community and technical colleges meet the growing demand for degrees and certificates; and

$10 million for the Labor Education Alignment Program (LEAP) helping communities align degree and course offerings with the needs of the local workforce.

The proposal invests $581.6 million in state and other funds to build see Haslam etd. pg. 7

JD the Jack Daniel Distillery for their continued investment in Lynchburg and bringing us closer to making Tennessee the No. 1 location in the Southeast for high quality jobs."

"Tennessee is home to many brands known around the world, and of those brands, Jack Daniel's certainly ranks among the top of the list," Boyd said. "This year marks the 150th anniversary of the Jack Daniel Distillery and as one of the state's most respected brands, we thank the company for its long history in our state and its continued contribution to Team Tennessee."

The Jack Daniel Distillery underwent a separate expansion less than three years ago which included the addition of stills, barrel warehouses and related infrastructure. The project represented an investment of $103 million and the creation of 94 jobs.

"The bourbon and American whiskey category is booming, and we appreciate the support of our Tennessee state and economic development officials as we work to meet global demand for Jack Daniel's," said Larry Combs, SVP General Manager Jack Daniel's Supply Chain. "We are especially proud that this second expansion announcement comes as we celebrate the 150th anniversary of the Jack Daniel Distillery, America's Oldest Registered Distillery."

In addition to the new barrelhouses and bottling facility modifications, the current expansion will also involve renovations to the Visitor Center to support increased tourism and enhance the visitor experience. Last year, the Distillery received more than 275,000 guests from around the world.

"Lynchburg is proud to be home to America's oldest registered distillery and a world class tourist destination," Metropolitan Lynchburg-Moore County Mayor Sloan Stewart said. "Jack Daniel's is an outstanding corporate citizen, and we appreciate all that they have done to give back to the community. We congratulate them on the expansion and look forward to many years of success in the future."

"TVA and Duck River Electric Membership Corporation congratulate the Jack Daniel Distillery on its latest plans to expand and create new jobs and investment in Lynchburg," TVA Senior Vice President of Economic Development John Bradley said. "It's always an exciting day when an existing company is committed to continuing growth in our rural communities. We are pleased to partner with the Tennessee Department of Economic and Community Development, city of Lynchburg and Moore County to celebrate Jack Daniel's ongoing business success and longstanding commitment to grow in the Valley."

Lynchburg and Moore County are represented by Sen. Jim Tracy (R - Shelbyville) and Rep. David Alexander (R - Winchester) in the Tennessee General Assembly.
