Tech Support Scam

The Internet Crime Complaint Center (IC3) is receiving an increase in complaints related to technical support scams, where the subject claims to be an employee (or an affiliate) of a major computer software or security company offering technical support to the victim. Recent complaints indicate some subjects are claiming to be support for cable and Internet companies to offer assistance with digital cable boxes and connections, modems, and routers. The subject claims the written on the side next to the closed business with a male driver.

Deputy approached the drivers side and the driver, Jerry E. Hill Jr. was masturbating using a penis pump. Mr. Hill stated that he had just left a service call in that area. Deputy asked Mr. Hill for his license and he noticed that he was reaching under the seat. Mr. Hill exited the vehicle.

Sgt. Bowen and Cpl. Hutchins arrived on scene. Deputy asked Mr. Hill was there anything illegal inside the vehicle and he stated "No". Deputy asked for consent to search the vehicle and Mr. Hill stated "No". While Sgt. Bowen was checking the property of Continental Express Cpl. Hutchens deployed his K9, Dante. Dante did alert to the vehicle.

Deputy advised Mr. Hill that Dante did alert. Mr. Hill stated that there was Methamphetamine inside the vehicle. The following items where found: 20.5 grams of Meth, one marijuana grinder, one set of digital scale, one loaded needle and several other needles. Deputy Jamie Ketner LCSO, made the arrest.

Awards

by Deputy Attorney General Sally Yates and Executive Office for U.S. Attorneys (EOUSA) Director Monty Wilkinson at the 32nd annual Director's Awards Ceremony on Thursday, June 1, 2016, in Washington D.C.

The Eastern District of Tennessee was one of 33 districts represented at the ceremony which was held in the Great Hall at the Robert F. Kennedy Department of Justice Building.

In her prepared remarks, Deputy Attorney General Yates said, "The achievements being recognized today reflect the breadth of the department's responsibilities, and some of our most significant challenges. From dismantling dangerous gangs, drug cartels and human trafficking operations to tackling political corruption, white collar crimes, and international terrorism, these awardees have taken on our toughest cases. And the citizens of our country are safer because of their work."

"We honor the truly talented and dedicated legal and administrative personnel in the 94 U.S. Attorneys' offices and our law enforcement partners who everyday touch lives in our communities, protect the American people, and work to ensure the fair and impartial administration of justice," said Director Wilkinson.

Sharry A. Dedman-Beard received the 2016 Director's Award for Superior Performance in Public Affairs. She was recognized for her extraordinary efforts in coordinating the media response in July 2015, when a homegrown violent extremist shot and killed five soldiers at a Marine recruiting station and National Guard facility in Chattanooga. Ms. Dedman-Beard worked closely with the U.S. Attorney, FBI, and other federal, state and local public information officers to facilitate the controlled release of information to international and domestic media representatives. She consulted with the public affairs contacts at EOUSA and the Department's National Security Division; composed press releases; organized press conferences; and served as a contact for those state and local political and public figures that were anxious to be a part of the response and investigation. She was also recognized for demonstrating her expertise in media relations by her response to the press in other high profile criminal cases throughout the district. Her relationship with the district's media and law enforcement agencies and her expertise enhanced the public relations efforts of the U.S. Attorneys' office.

Amy K. Veatch received the 2016 Director's Award for Superior Performance in a Litigative Support Role. Ms. Veatch was recognized for her outstanding organizational and technological skill in preparing discovery, trial exhibits, and electronic presentations of evidence at complex trials in the Chattanooga Division. Specifically, her management of a recent high profile case demonstrated her unsurpassed value to the office. She led discovery and preparation of 502 electronic trial exhibits, which stemmed from her tackling the inventory and management of 275,000 pages of medical records seized from several pill mills. She devised a medical reports tracking system for data from multiple agencies, spanning several years of investigation. She also created timelines, maps, summary charts, and edited audio and video exhibits taken from hours of video surveillance, undercover recordings, and 60 days of wire interceptions of thousands of pertinent calls. The defendant's conviction and 280-year prison sentence - and the resulting chilling effect on would-be pill mill company has received notifications of errors, viruses, or security issues from the victim's internet connection. Subjects are also claiming to work on behalf of government agencies to resolve computer viruses and threats from possible foreign countries or terrorist organizations. From January 1, 2016, through April 30, 2016, the IC3 received 3,668 complaints with adjusted losses of $2,268,982.

Technical Details
Initial contact with the victims occurs by different methods. Any electronic device with Internet capabilities can be affected.

Telephone: This is the traditional contact method. Victims receive a "cold" call from a person who claims the victim's computer is sending error messages and numerous viruses were detected. Victims report the subjects have strong foreign accents.

Pop-up message: The victim receives an on-screen pop-up message claiming viruses are attacking the device. The message includes a phone number to call to receive assistance.

Locked screen on a device (Blue Screen of Death - BSOD): Victims report receiving a frozen, locked screen with a phone number and instructions to contact a (phony) tech support company. Some victims report being redirected to alternate websites before the BSOD occurs. This has been particularly noticed when the victim was accessing social media and financial websites.

Pop-up messages and locked screens are sometimes accompanied by a recorded, verbal message to contact a phone number for assistance.

Once the phony tech support company/representative makes verbal contact with the victim, the subject tries to convince the victim to provide remote access to their device.

If the device is mobile (a tablet, smart phone, etc.), the subject often instructs the victim to connect the device to a computer to be fixed. Once the subject is remotely connected to the device, they claim to have found multiple viruses, malware, and/or scareware that can be removed for a fee. Fees are collected via a personal debit or credit card, electronic check, wire transfer, or prepaid card. A few instances have occurred in which the victim paid by personal check.

Variations and Trends

An increasingly reported variation of the scam occurs when the subject contacts the victim offering a refund for tech support services previously rendered because the company has closed.

The victim is convinced to allow the subject access to their device and to log onto their online bank account to process the refund. The subject

Legion

American Legion Post 256 recently recognized and honored members of their Post who are Purple Heart recipients. As a featured guest speaker Tennessee Department of Veterans Services Commissioner Many-Bears Grinder presented Silver Star Banners and certificates of award to six members who have been awarded Purple Heart Medals. Like the Gold Star and Blue Star Banners, it recognizes the sacrifice made by veterans of our armed forces and their families.

Award recipients were Paul Fellner, James Hartman, William Little, William

Robinson, Dean Schiller and Vic Vickery.

Commissioner Grinder was appointed by Governor Bill Haslam and she is the first woman to serve the State of Tennessee in this capacity. Commissioner Grinder retired from the Tennessee Army National Guard as a Colonel with more than 35 years of military service. She is a combat veteran having served during Operation Enduring Freedom in Afghanistan. Commissioner Grinder served as the Head of Secretariat for the International Police Coordination Board, traveling throughout Afghanistan, working with international diplomats and police, as well as Afghan leaders.

Other dignitaries in attendance and showing their support were Mayors of Loudon County, Monroe County, Lenoir City and Vonnore. Additionally the sheriffs of Loudon and Monroe County.

ment to the mission of the Department.

"These awards are tangible proof of the respect that Sharry Dedman-Beard and Amy Veatch have earned through their dedication to the mission of the Department of Justice in the Eastern District of Tennessee. Our district takes great pride in their achievement and accomplishments, and joins the Director in thanking them for their service to the United States," said Acting U.S. Attorney Nancy Stallard Harr.

then has control of the victim's device and bank account. With this access, the subject appears to have "mistakenly" refunded too much money to the victim's account, and requests the victim wire the difference back to the subject company. In reality, the subject transferred funds among the victim's own accounts (checking, savings, retirement, etc.) to make it appear as though funds were deposited. The victim wires their own money back to the company, not finding out until later that the funds came from one of their own accounts.

The refunding and wiring process can occur multiple times, which results in the victim losing thousands of dollars.

Victims are increasingly reporting subjects are becoming hostile, abusive, and utilizing foul language and threats when being challenged by victims.

Additional Threats

The tech support scam is an attempt by subjects to gain access to victim devices. However, more can happen once a subject is given access to the device. For example:

The subject takes control of the victim's device and/or bank account, and will not release control until the victim pays a ransom.

The subject can access computer files that may contain financial accounts, passwords, and personal data (health records, social security numbers, etc.).

The subject may intentionally install viruses on the device.

The subject threatens to destroy the victim's computer or continues to call in a harassing manner.

Defense and Mitigation

Recognize the attempt and cease all communication with the subject.

Resist the pressure to act quickly. The subjects will urge the victim to fast action in order to protect their device. The subjects create a sense of urgency to produce fear and lure the victim into immediate action.
