Victim stated that he had gone out of town over the past weekend and when he returned to his garage, on 06/06/2016 to open up for his work crews, he found the listed items missing from his shop. He immediately changed the door lock combination and has told no one what the new code is. Two of his employees stated that the items were not missing as of 06/04/2016 at around 1200. They knew this because they were finishing up their lawn service jobs for that day. Victim stated that he had a keyless entry system on his garage door and several employees knew the combination. Deputy asked victim if he had found any signs of forced entry and he said he had not seen any.

Deputy did not find any forced entry either. Deputy asked victim if he had recently fired anyone that might still have the door code. Victim stated whenever he dismisses someone he always changes the door code. Victim also stated that a newer employee, Dalton Blevins, did not report for work that day. Victim has seven employees all together on his payroll. The neighbor who lives on the property, stated that on 06/05/2016 he was awake at approximately 0130 and noticed a vehicle pull up next to the shop. He stated that the vehicle had its parking lights on only so he went down to the shop to see who it was. When the neighbor approached the shop he noticed the door was open. He went in and recognized Dalton Blevins as he was taking some tools from the shop. He stated that Mr. Blevins told him that Victim, had told him he could use some of the shops tools. The neighbor observed another male in a maroon sedan parked beside the shop. The neighbor stated he recognized the driver as someone he had met while he was in the Loudon County Jail. Neighbor stated he thought the mans name was David but he could not be certain if that was the correct last name. Deputy could not find that name in the jail's database. Neighbor stated he could positively identify him if he saw him again. He stated the man had a mohawk, earrings and a black tooth. Neighbor stated he went back to his house and told victim about this incident on this date. Neighbor did not see the two taking the listed items.

Victim stated that he never authorized Dalton Blevins to enter his shop outside business hours, nor did he authorize Mr. Blevins to take any tools from the shop. Mr. Brock still has several tools that he is gathering the information on that will need to be entered into NCIC later. Mr. Brock will also look for Dalton Blevins personal information to be added to the report.

The listed items will be entered into NCIC on this date. Bradley Russell and Dalton Blevins sold the items that were taken. After an investigation Both were arrested.

Library

22, noon to 1:00 pm in the East Tennessee History Center auditorium, 601 South Gay Street, in this month's Books Sandwiched In, a program series sponsored by the Friends of Knox County Public Library.

Gawande's book Being Mortal addresses the topic of the inevitability of death, but according to Mendola, la, goes beyond that. "What is more remarkable about this book is the deft way he discusses another aspect of mortality: human finitude. We don't just go about our lives and then evaporate; most of us have a longish phase at the end of our lives that is marked by loss. These losses – of abilities, of independence, of memory, of social connections – are perhaps more fearsome than death itself."

"Another important theme in this book concerns the role of medicine vis-à-vis mortality," Mendola said. "We tend to achieve that which we pursue, and the American healthcare system has ardently pursued heroic, lifesaving technologies. It has been less invested in helping people preserve the things that matter most to them in life, such as mobility, relationships, meaningful activity, and being at home."

"Gawande encourages us to question the way medicine is produced and consumed, and to ask ourselves what we really want from healthcare," Mendola said.

Mendola's experience as a nurses' aide during high school and later on the inpatient psychiatric floor of a small county hospital naturally led to her interest in end-of-life issues and medical ethics. Prior to her current tenure as Director of Clinical Ethics at UT Medical Center, Mendola was a lecturer in the Philosophy Department at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville. Mendola was born and raised in Buffalo, NY before coming to Knoxville in 1993. She is married to Dr. John Nolt, Professor, University of Tennessee, Knoxville Department of Philosophy and together they have three adult children.

The series will continue on July 27, when Dr. Margaret Lazarus Dean, UT Department of English, discusses her book Leaving Orbit: Notes from the Last Days of American Spaceflight.

Fishing

Park. This is the only day of the year that residents can fish without a state fishing license. This is a free event open to everyone of all ages. "I've been doing this for 9 years over at Oak Ridge, I've taken what was started over there and tried to improve on it here," Jim "Butch" Thompson from G-Daddy's Bait & Tackle said. "My thought is to start them young and when they get in high school they won't be out here getting in trouble, they'll want to be on the water like I was." Butch also wanted to thank Loudon City Council for their help in getting the handicap accessible ramp taken care of as well as, the gravel road near the dock built by volunteers, which makes it easier for boaters to turn around and launch their boats. The tournament is made up of 5 categories and had several winners. In the 5 yrs and under category Cooper Grayson was awarded a prize for the most fish, biggest fish, and the smallest fish. In the 6-9 yr old group Kayson Benton took first place. In the 10-12 yr old group Sarah Holloway was 1st place, followed by Hayden Crowder in 2nd place & biggest fish. 13-15 yr old group Gabriel Houston took 1st place, Marsha Hudson in 2nd place, and Austin Smallwood took 3rd place & smallest fish. In the 16 & up group Jonathan Noble took 1st place, most total weight, and biggest fish. Pat Bethel was 2nd, and Chris Sutton took 3rd place and smallest fish.

Chris Sutton took home his award for the smallest fish

Pat Bethel nabbed the award for second place in the tourney
