CDC Study Shows Flu Vaccination Prevents Severe Flu Illness in U.S. Children

Vaccine protects, even when vaccine virus and circulating viruses are different

Revis Berry

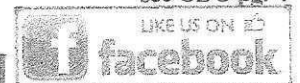

see Order pg. 3

A new CDC study published in the journal Clinical Infectious Diseases (CID) shows that flu vaccination protected children against serious flu illness even when they were infected with a flu virus that was antigenically different from the vaccine virus. This reinforces the benefit of flu vaccination, even when circulating flu viruses have drifted and are different from the virus used in vaccine production. "This study highlights that flu can cause serious illness in children, but flu vaccines can be lifesaving. This is very good news," said CDC Director Rochelle P. Walensky, M.D., M.P.H. "It's especially important that children get a flu vaccine in addition to their recommended COVID-19 vaccines this season. Flu season has started and currently flu vaccination is down in children, so now is the best time to get your child vaccinated, if you have not already." A hallmark of flu viruses is that they are constantly changing through a process called antigenic drift, especially H3N2 viruses, which are often associated with more severe flu seasons. How well flu vaccines work is determined in part by the similarity between the viruses chosen for vaccine production and viruses circulating in populations. While the composition of flu vaccines is reviewed annually and updated to match evolving viruses, even then, changes in the virus can outpace vaccine production. The CDC study reports

DUI

Todd Phillips, 47, Mahala Cove Lexington, was charged with DUI, Poss. Of Handgun while Under the Influence, and Violation of Implied Consent.

Deputy Clay Jenkins LCSO, responded to Hwy 72 @ I-75 SB off ramp due to a vehicle wreck to assist Deputy Tony Branson. Upon arriving on scene, Deputy spoke to Todd Phillips who was the driver of a 2018 red Jeep Compass FL registration LDRI63 with damage to the right front bumper. Deputy then observed Mr. Phillips to have blood shot watery eyes and a strong odor of an alcoholic beverage coming from his person. Mr. Phillips then advised he had a few double shots before leaving the house. Deputy then asked Mr. Phillips to perform Standardized Field Sobriety Testing in which he agreed to do and performed poorly. He then advised he would not consent to a blood or breath test. Mr. Phillips advised he had a few firearms inside of the vehicle with quite a bit of ammunition. Upon consent to search the vehicle, inside of it was 1 shotgun, 2 long rifles, and 4 handguns all with ammunition. He was then taken into custody and transported to the Loudon County Jail without incident. All firearms and ammunition were taken from the scene and placed into evidence. All of this did occur in Loudon County, TN.

Order

Revis Berry, 70, Loudon Ridge Road Lenoir City, was charged with Violation of Order of Protection.

Deputy Harrison LCSO, was dispatched to Loudon Ridge Rd in reference to an unwanted guest. While enroute the victim/complainant stated Revis Berry was at her residence taking down a metal garage and was not allowed to take the property or be at the residence due to him being under bond restrictions out of Loudon County. Loudon County Dispatch did confirm Berry was under active bond restrictions for an aggravated assault charge on 12-13-2021. Once on scene, Deputy made contact with the offender Revis Berry who was actively taking down the garage. Berry stated he had been there for three days retrieving his property but did not set up a one-day escort with Loudon County Sheriffs' office in order to retrieve the property. The complainant stated she only allowed Berry to come to the property the day prior to gather all his belongings and was not supposed to be at the residence on this day. Based on the above facts, Deputy placed Revis Berry in custody for violation of order of protection.

that flu vaccination reduced the risk of severe flu in children by 78% against similar flu A viruses and 47% against flu A viruses that had drifted from the vaccine virus. Further, the vaccine was 76% effective at preventing life-threatening influenza, which included invasive mechanical ventilation, CPR, and other severe complications including death. This study adds to evidence showing that some people who are vaccinated still get sick, but the vaccination can decrease illness severity.

This large CDC study summarizes findings from a CDC vaccine effectiveness network that looks at how well flu vaccines work at preventing serious flu illness in children. This network is now called the Overcoming COVID-19 Network and will investigate how well COVID-19 vaccines work to prevent COVID-19 hospitalizations in children in addition to how well flu vaccines protect children against flu hospitalization during 2022.

Researchers looked at data from the 2019–2020 flu season, during which a record-breaking 199 flu deaths in children were reported to CDC and when most flu activity was caused by two viruses that were antigenically different from their corresponding vaccine viruses.

According to CDC flu surveillance systems, flu season has started in many parts of the country with continued flu activity expected over the coming weeks. Most flu detected so far has been H3N2 flu found in children and young adults. These circulating H3N2 flu viruses are genetically closely related to the H3N2 vaccine virus, but have some differences that may result in reduced protection against those viruses from the vaccine. As this study highlights, however, vaccination can still have important benefits even when this happens. It is also important to note that usually many flu viruses spread over any one season and flu vaccines protect against four different viruses.

Flu illness can be dangerous for children. Each year, millions of children get sick with seasonal flu, thousands of children are hospitalized, and some children die from flu. Two flu deaths in children have been reported to CDC already this season. Flu can be especially dangerous for children younger than 5 years old because they are at higher risk of getting very sick from flu because of their age.

With flu activity just getting started, that means there's still time to benefit from flu vaccination this season. It takes about two weeks after vaccination for antibodies to develop in the body and provide protection against influenza virus infection. The U.S. Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices (ACIP) has recommended annual vaccination for all persons aged 6 months or older since 2010. Despite this recommendation, during the 2020–2021 flu season U.S. flu vaccination coverage remained between 50.8%–68% for children younger than 18 years old.

Rachel Webb, 32, Cory Drive Lenoir City, was charged with Domestic Assault.

Officer Carroll LCPD, was dispatched to the Lenoir City Police Department to meet with a subject who wanted to file a report of child abuse. Upon arrival, Officer met with (complainant). The complainant advised Officer that he, and his ex wife Rachel Ann Webb(offender) have joint custody of their 4 children. Their oldest child (victim) did come to his fathers house today, and told his father that his mother had hit him. Officer did speak with the victim, and he did advise him that his mother, and him had gotten into an argument over him looking for a phone charger to charge his cell phone. Victim did state that his mother Rachel Ann Webb did punch him in the ribs, and pick up a piece of wood, and hit him on the forearm with it. There were visible markings on his forearm to be significant with his story. Victim did advise that this incident did take place at the mothers Rachel Ann Webbs residence at Cory Drive, in Lenoir City. A DCS referral was made. Officer Carroll did write a warrant on Rachel Ann Webb for Domestic Assault. Officer Carroll, then did go to Cory Dr, in an attempt to locate Ms. Webb. Officer was then able to locate her, and took her into custody, and she was transported to the jail without incident. This did occur in Lenoir City, TN.

Horoscopes

might be delayed, causing you to wonder if it might have been lost. It hasn't, Aquarius; it's just delayed. Unfortunately, there isn't much you can do but wait. Equipment you use on the job could go out of whack today, necessitating calling in a repairman. This could set your work back some and make you a bit antsy. Try to find something else to do!

Pisces 2/19-3/20

Today you're likely to be feeling especially passionate, sexy, and desirous of a romantic encounter, Pisces. You might even have a hot date scheduled. However, don't be surprised if it has to be postponed for reasons beyond the control of either you or your partner. If you can't do otherwise, you might try to sublimate those feelings through creative activities. Engrossing novels and movies could also prove a good outlet, although never as good as the real thing!

Aries 3/21-4/19

A female visitor who might have a few problems might come to your door wanting advice and sympathy, Aries. She could have some other news that could come as a shock to you. A crisis on the job might make it necessary for you or your partner to spend most of the time today away from home and family. This could be frustrating, particularly if you have to cancel your plans. Hang in there!

Taurus 4/20-5/20

Tasks of any kind are all likely to seem like the labors of Hercules today, Taurus. Overwork and nerve strain could have you feeling a little bit under the weather today, and it might be a good idea for you to take some time alone to rest. If you can't do that, at least try to take things easy. Some unexpected changes in your community might have your neighbors' tongues wagging. Be sure to check out the facts before jumping to any conclusions.

Gemini 5/21-6/20

Money matters might be weighing on the mind of a close friend or lover and your advice could be sought. A creative project of some kind may require a larger expenditure of money, time, or other resources than you originally thought, and this could have you wondering if you'll be able to continue with it. It might take a little corner cutting on your part, Gemini, but you should be able to complete it as planned.

Cancer 6/21-7/22

You might have visitors, Cancer, or even a hot date scheduled for tonight, but by mid-afternoon you might be feeling too tired to go through with it and wondering if you should cancel. It's best to keep your activities low key. Have coffee and snacks at home instead of going out, and get the snacks from the store! Your evening is likely to be full of exciting and stimulating conversations, so you'll be glad you stuck with your plans.

Leo 7/23-8/22

Deliveries you may be expecting could be delayed or held up. Today you might learn something shocking about a neighbor or relative, and gossip might spread very rapidly through your community. This could have you reeling even though it might be exaggerated. You could pay visits to a few people nearby, Leo, or spend a lot of time on the phone trying to learn the truth. Don't take anything you hear today at face value.

Virgo 8/23-9/22

Some good but surprising news about a group with which you may be affiliated could come your way today, Virgo. Perhaps fundraising activities have been more successful than you thought, or perhaps recognition is coming your way. A lot of paperwork may have to be completed before this can be made to work for you, however. Contracts or other legal papers might be involved. In the evening, go out with your friends and celebrate.

Libra 9/23-10/22

Some upsetting news regarding money could throw you into a bit of a dither today, Libra. Perhaps a check you've been expecting hasn't arrived on time, or maybe the bank has made a computer error regarding your account. It's nothing that can't be straightened out, though it's going to be a pain making all of those phone calls. Basically, all should be going very well for you. This is only a temporary hindrance.

Scorpio 10/23-11/21

A temporary setback with regard to your career might have you feeling a bit disoriented right now, Scorpio. Modern equipment of some kind might be involved. Don't make yourself crazy; this is only temporary and will be straightened out. Your own determination, efficiency, and practical abilities should have it taken care of in no time. Basically, you're probably feeling quite optimistic for the future and not likely to change that energy any time soon.

Sagittarius 11/22-12/21

Today may start out being a very frustrating day, Sagittarius. Be prepared! Some equipment with which you work might suddenly go out of order and it could take a while to get it fixed. A temporary separation from a romantic partner could also be disappointing. You may have a lot of physical energy for which you have little immediate outlet. Take a long walk. This could not only provide an energy outlet but clear your head as well.

Capricorn 12/22-01/19

Your level of artistic inspiration is very high today, Capricorn. Dreams or meditation may have brought up some spiritual insights and revelations for you, and you may have promptly forgotten them upon coming out of your dream or meditative state. This could prove very frustrating for you! Try writing them down even if you only remember snatches. This can actually bring them to the surface again. You'll want a record of them anyway.
