Jamestown City Recorder Indicted on Multiple Counts

An investigation by the Tennessee Comptroller's Office has resulted in the indictment of Patricia "Gail" Dishmon, the current city recorder for the City of Jamestown in Fentress County. As city recorder, Dishmon is responsible for the administration of all financial affairs of the city.

Investigators determined that Dishmon failed to pay her personal natural gas utility accounts on time. She had delinquent balances totaling $1,758.05 that were not paid until December 2021 when they came under scrutiny by the city's financial auditors.

Dishmon failed to make payments on her primary residence account; transferred her son's unpaid balances to an inactive account; and allowed her son's natural gas account to go unpaid while also applying grant funding to his account to reduce the unpaid account balance.

Patricia Estep, 35, Nelson Street Philadelphia, was charged with Contributing to the Delinquency of a Minor, and Child Abuse or Neglect/Endangerment.

Deputy W. Jenkins LCSO, was working my assigned post as a School Resource Officer at Loudon High School when Deputy was summoned to the main office in reference to an intoxicated juvenile female. When Deputy arrived he was informed that the juvenile was sent to the nurses office from her class because she could not stay awake and was showing other signs of impairment. Deputy was also informed that The school nurse evaluated the juvenile and came to suspect she was impaired. Deputy then made contact with juvenile who had slurred, slow speech and bloodshot eyes. Juvenile consented and performed sobriety testing. Juvenile performed poorly on the tests and showed signs of cannabis intoxication. Based on Deputy training, experience, and the totality of the circumstances the juvenile appeared in a public place under the influence of an intoxicating substance to the degree that she may have been endangered or endangered others. Deputy place the juvenile in custody, transported her to the Loudon County Juvenile Shelter, and filed a juvenile petition against her for public intoxication. This did happen in Loudon County Tn.

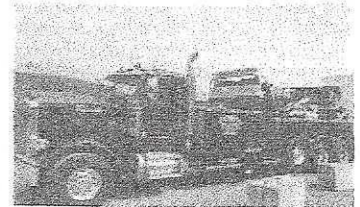

After the arrest of the juvenile, Deputy C. Lane was dispatched to Nelson Street in Philadelphia to notify Patricia Estep, the juvenile legal guardian, that the juvenile was being held at the juvenile shelter. Mrs. Estep told Deputy Lane that she was missing her "pen" and thought that juvenile may have it. Deputy Lane asked Mrs. Estep what kind of pen she was talking about to which she replied that it was a "delta 8" pen. Through my training and experience Deputy knew Delta 8 to be an intoxicating cannabis derivative that is illegal for minors to possess. It should be noted that Mrs. Estep choose not to call the school or law enforcement to report her suspicion that the juvenile had her delta 8 pen until she was being advised that the juvenile was in trouble. It should also be noted that the juvenile has been in trouble multiple times for having illicit substances at school. Mrs. Estep would be aware of juvenile pattern of possessing substances she is not allowed to have, but did not take adequate measures to keep her Delta 8 pen away from her. Based on the totality of the circumstances Mrs. Estep knowingly neglected the juvenile, so as to adversely affect the child's health and welfare. Mrs. Estep also contributed to the delinquency of the juvenile, by abetting the juvenile in the commission of an act of delinquency by allowing her access to her Delta 8 pen.

noted that Dishmon used questionable annual and sick leave and paid herself questionable compensation.

Based upon this investigation, in September 2022, the Fentress County Grand Jury indicted Patricia Dishmon one count of theft of services over $1,000, and one count of official misconduct.

“Our investigators noted numerous deficiencies within the City of Jamestown’s financial and operational practices,” said Comptroller Jason Mumpower. “The city must enforce its utility disconnect policies for all accounts, follow its approved leave policies, document and create a policy for food purchases, and discontinue the use of signature stamps.”

Friends of the Library’s Fall Used Book Sale to Raise Additional Funds for the Knox County Public Library

Friends of the Knox County Public Library returns to Central United Methodist Church with its first Fall Used Book Sale September 29-October 1. The purpose of the sale is twofold: to raise funds for the Knox County Public Library and to offer affordable books to the community.

Current members of Friends of the Library will be the first to shop the sale during Members Preview Day from 3:30-7:00 pm on Thursday, September 29. Memberships can be purchased online or renewed at the door. The sale will be open to the public Friday and Saturday from 10 am-5 pm, with Saturday designated as half price day. Face masks are encouraged during the sale.

This sale marks the first time that Friends has coordinated two large semiannual sales in the same year. The sale will include roughly 20,000 books, more than were available at the huge spring sale earlier this year. Of these books, about 1,750 are specially priced books which have not previously been offered at either the spring sale or branch sales.

Shoppers can expect to browse 42 different categories of fiction and nonfiction. Just like at the spring sale, books will be spread out among three different rooms: regular-priced fiction and nonfiction for adults in the main room, a room dedicated to regular-priced children’s books, and a special collections area with rare and unique books. DVDS, CDs, and audiobooks will also be available for purchase. Most items, with the exception of the specially priced books, are $2 or less.

Sale sponsors are the Knox County Public Library, Magpie’s Bakery, Three Rivers Market, Perk City, WATE-TV, the Knoxville News Sentinel, and Central United Methodist Church.
